Set of three Rick Ruggles' black and white photographs of architectural "Found Hearts", archivally printed on 12" x12" stretched canvas, valued at $150 or $400 for the set. The images are a gilded gate at Dumbarton Oaks, a masonry detail from the Glover Park area, and door handles from western Massachusetts. The images were exhibited at Rick Ruggles' first one-man show in January 2008 at the Saville Gallery in Cumberland MD. An avid photographer, his eye for detail led him to notice a heart-shaped pothole in the fall of 2000, sparking the idea for a Valentine. Inspired by that single image, Rick began seeing hearts in shadows, clouds, puddles... everywhere. His collection now numbers .in the thousands. (<http://www.foundhearts.com>)
